

WHY IT'S REQUIRED 01

Schools, recruiters and employment agencies in China want to see you, hear your accent, and get a feel for your personality before inviting you for an interview. Unfortunately, they're not going to meet you in person before you arrive!

WHERE IT'S GOING 02

Your introduction video, along with your CV and Text Form, will only be shared with recruiting partners, schools, and those who may assist with job opportunities. You can read the company's privacy policy at flytoteach.co.uk/privacy.

WHAT TO WEAR 03

There's no requirement to dress up smart. You can wear casual clothes if you'd prefer, but remember, you are giving off a first impression to a potential employer!

HOW TO FILM 04

A smartphone or computer webcam video is sufficient. Selfie-style is also okay if you prefer this. Keep it between 30-90 seconds.

WHAT TO SAY 05

Try sticking to a script like this:

- Hello, my name is ...
 - I'm from ...
 - I studied ... at university
 - [Discuss teaching/relevant experience]
 - I'd love to move to [China] because ...

ANY TIPS? 06

Be you! And try and keep the file under 10MB if you can - there are various sites online where you can compress this for free. This makes it much easier to share. If there are any problems, you may be asked to create a different one. If you have any questions or queries about the video, contact joe@flytoteach.co.uk.
